ADVERBS OF AFFIRMATION AND NEGATION

Adverb of Affirmation or Negation is a word which declares that something is true or some equivalent expression or negative statement, judgment or a logical proposition. Some examples of affirmation and negation are - certainly, definitely, never, no etc. The first two words are the Adverbs of Affirmation while the latter are the Adverbs of Negation.

Difference between Adverbs of Affirmation and Adverbs of Negation?

Consider the sentence - 'I will definitely do that'. Word 'definitely' affirms the listener that the speaker is going to do the task which is being talked about. 'Definitely' is therefore an Adverb of Affirmation. Consider another sentence - 'I will never do that'. In the sentence 'never' negates the sentence by saying that the speaker is not going to do the particular task. 'Never' is therefore an Adverb of Negation.
