DEFINITION

Reflexive pronoun is used as an object when the subject of a sentence and its object are the same person or thing. These reflexive pronouns always end in -self or -selves.

They include: adapt, complain, concentrate, get up, hide, lie down, meet, move, relax, remember, shave, shower, sit down. 2. After a preposition of place or location we use a personal pronoun and not a reflexive pronoun

Exception of reflexive pronoun

EXCEPTION-1

Don't use reflexive pronouns when the verb is something someone does every day.

She dries herself with a towel after every shower.

John dressed himself for the meeting.

In cases like this where the verb describes something that is a common occurrence, you simply don't need the reflexive pronoun.

She dries with a towel after every shower.

John dressed for the meeting.

However, you should use the reflexive pronoun if you need it for emphasis.

John dressed himself for the meeting even though he only had one arm.

Clearly, John is doing something exceptional and the use of the reflexive pronoun helps to bring out that fact

EXCEPTION-2.

Don't use reflexive pronouns after prepositions of place.

Incorrect:

Mary placed the mixing bowl beside herself.

Correct:

Mary placed the mixing bowl beside her.

EXCEPTION-3

Don't use reflexive pronouns after "with."

In this case, we are referring to the preposition with when it means "accompanied by."

Incorrect:

Jordan took some jelly beans with herself to the show.

Correct:

Jordan took some jelly beans with her to the show.

moral story(FIND THE ERROR IN REFLEXIVE PRONOUN)

tortoise was resting under a tree, on which a bird had built its nest. Tortoise took strawberry with itself. The tortoise spoke to the bird sitting besides itself mockingly, “What a shabby home you have! It is made of broken twigs, it has no roof, and looks crude. What’s worse is that you had to build it yourself. I think my house, which is my shell, is much better than your pathetic nest”.

“Yes, it is made of broken sticks, looks shabby and is open to the elements of nature. It is crude, but I built it, and I like it.”

“I guess it’s just like any other nest, but not better than mine”, said the tortoise. “You must be jealous of my shell, though.”

“On the contrary”, the bird replied. “My home has space for my family and friends; where we do our works ourselves. your shell cannot accommodate anyone other than you. Maybe you have a better house. But I have a better home”, said the bird happily.

Moral

Better a crowded hut than a lonely mansion.

Ans-it,it,no reflexive pronoun
